

SOLID SOUTH'S VOTE DIVIDED

Republican Leaders Claim That Taft Will Secure Good Portion Of The Electoral Vote.

DEMOCRATIC LEADERS APATHETIC

Southern Democracy Did Not Want Bryan Chosen At Denver Convention--Many States May Divide Their Votes At Election.

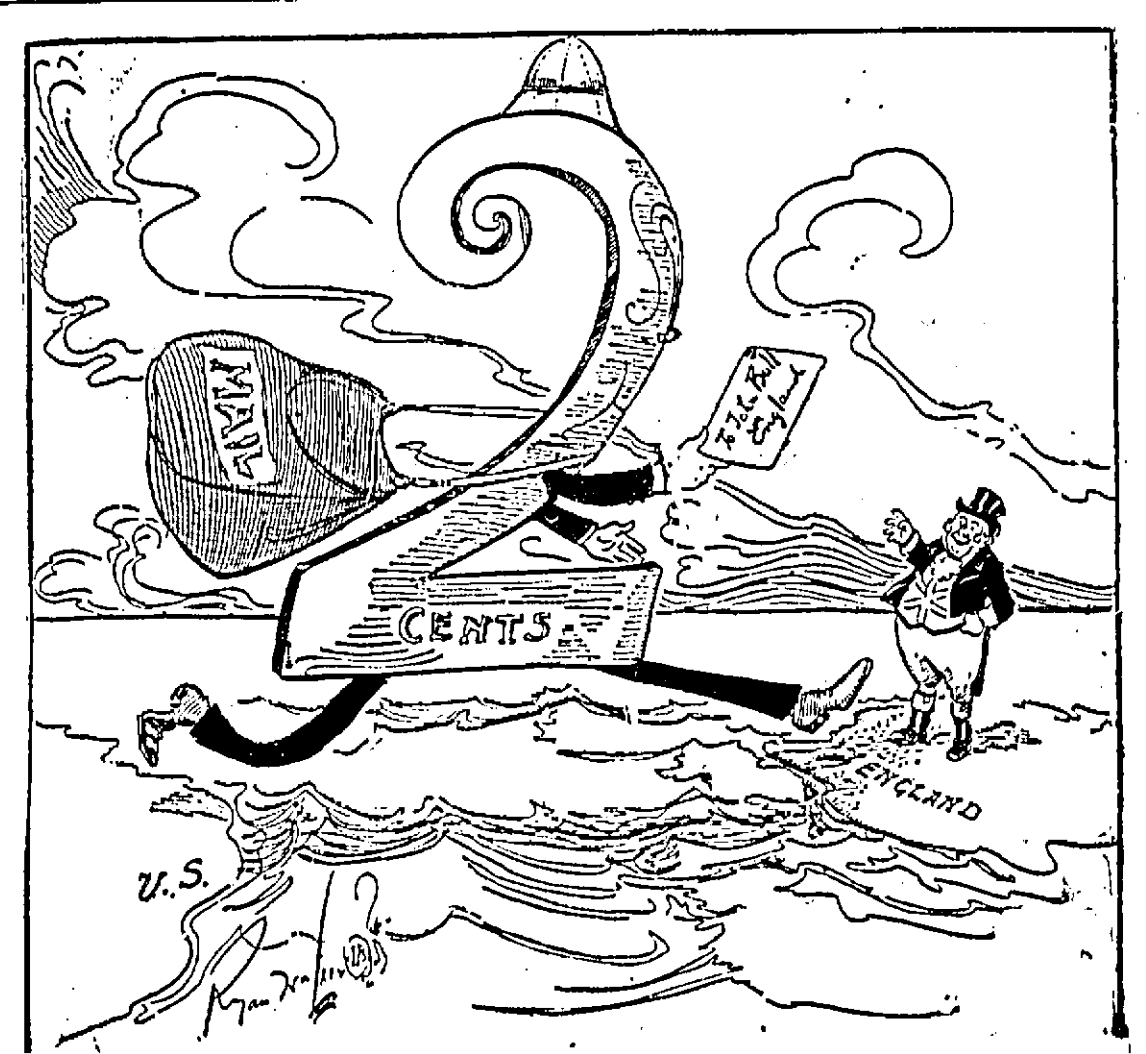

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, D. C., Oct. 1.—No where in the country are political conditions more interesting, more involved than they are in the Southern states. The section of the United States lying south of Mason and Dixon's line, which is generally counted safely Democratic, is badly torn up this year. There is not the slightest doubt that there is a strong inclination on the part of many conservative Southerners to break away from what is known as the Democratic party. There is a chance for Taft in one or two Southern states besides Maryland, while the South's republican membership in the House is expected to be increased materially.

There is that in the make-up of the great Ohlson that makes Southern people like him. His earnestness of purpose, his high sense of honor, his well-established reputation for fair dealing and his unblemished record as a public official are well known to Southern men. Many of them have come in personal contact with him during the past five or six years and he enjoys great popularity throughout the South.

With the exception of Texas and Arkansas, there was hardly a Southern state whose leaders wanted Bryan to be nominated in the Denver convention. They fought hard against it and, could the supporters of Judge Gray, of Delaware, and Governor Johnson, of Minnesota, have been brought together, the Nebraska never would have received the nomination. At a conference held in Washington in March, which was attended by the leaders of the Gray and Johnson supporters, and a number of Southern Senators and Representatives, it was conclusively shown that Bryan could be defeated at Denver if the two forces would combine against him. But neither would give way to the other and so the matter was dropped, the two forces were set up in disgust at many of them, elected as delegates to the Denver convention, stayed away and sent alternates.

This was particularly true of Louisiana, only a few of whose leaders appeared at Denver. In Alabama half the leaders were already committed to Johnson, but ill-advised managers of the Mississippi campaign, whose zeal outran their discretion, gave publicity to the fact too soon, and the Bryanites were able to head off the defection before the state convention was held. Still, most of the Alabama men are lukewarm in their support of the Nebraska. Representative Clayton, of that state, was chairman of the Denver convention, but his is an individual support. North Carolina and South Carolina were for Bryan. Georgia was halfhearted, as was Virginia, most of whose leaders, including Senator John Daniel and Senator Thomas S. Martin, both of whom have been opposed to Bryan. Mississippi's strongest public man, John Sharp Williams, now a member of the House, but soon to represent his state in the Senate, split with the Nebraska two years ago when the latter returned from his tour abroad and declared for government ownership of railroads.

In Kentucky Bryan's interference in the senatorial fight made him many enemies among Democrats. The Democrats did not want to elect Beckham

OUR NEW POSTAL ANCHOR TO ENGLAND.
Today inaugurates the two-cent postage between the United States and England.—News Item.

NEW TWO-CENT POSTAL RATE IN EFFECT TODAY

Letters Can Now Be Sent From United States To England For Two Cents.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, D. C., Oct. 1.—The agreement between the United States and England, by which the postal letter rate between the two countries is reduced from five cents to two cents an ounce, goes into effect today and Postmaster General Meyer, who brought about this agreement under the "restricted union" clause of the Postal Union, is awaiting with interest what effect, if any, this reduction in the letter rate will have upon the postal intercourse between the two countries. He does not, however, apprehend that the cut in the rate will cause a serious decrease in the postal receipts but is confident that the lower rate will so greatly stimulate commercial and private correspondence between the two countries, that it will more than compensate for the difference in the postal rate.

The proposition of reducing the letter postal rate between the United States and Great Britain had been agitated for some time by the merchants of the two countries, but the American postal authorities were not inclined to make the desired reduction, fearing that it would cause a serious loss in the postal receipts. Postmaster General Meyer strongly favored the reduction and was warmly supported by President Roosevelt. He approached the British postmaster general, Sydney Buxton, and met with a favorable response. The conclusion of the agreement was hastened by the action of the Universal Postal Union, which, on October 1, 1907, reduced the universal international postal rate between the countries belonging to the Union, from five cents for the first ounce and three cents for every additional ounce.

This reduction of the universal international postal rate paved the way for the "special union" between the United States and Great Britain, by demonstrating the injustice of charging the same postal rate to Great Britain with which this country has direct steamship connection, than to remote countries with which the United States has no direct communication. The articles of the Universal Postal Union permit the conclusion of "restricted unions" between any two countries and this is the fourth time that the American postal authorities have availed themselves of that privilege. Such agreements, fixing the letter rate at two cents have already been concluded with Cuba, Panama and Canada.

That the immediate effect of the reduction in the postal rate between the United States and Great Britain will be, of course, merely a matter of speculation at the present time. Postmaster General Meyer believes that the American and English merchants and manufacturers will not be slow in availing themselves of this opportunity to send large quantities of circulars, catalogues and advertising literature across the ocean, something that had been practically impossible under the former high letter rate. Businessmen are inclined to believe that the reduction will greatly stimulate the commercial relations between the two countries.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, D. C., Oct. 1.—Bishop Satterlee of the Philippines having declined election as the successor of the late Bishop Butler, the convention of the Episcopal diocese of Washington reconvened in St. Thomas' church today for the purpose of making another selection for the vacant see. The result is awaited with much interest in Episcopal circles. While Washington is one of the newest of Episcopal dioceses it is one of the most important because its see city is the national capital.

Numerous candidates are mentioned for the vacant bishopric. One of the most prominent appears to be Dean Matthews of the Cincinnati cathedral. TWENTY-FOUR HOUR AUTO RACE FRIDAY

Eleven Cars Have Been Entered for the Big Brighton Beach Race in New York.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, Oct. 1.—The preparations for the twenty-four-hour motor race which will begin at the Brighton Beach track tomorrow and will close on Saturday, are practically completed and the managers of the race are confident that the event will be even more successful than the race of last year, which attracted large crowds to the track and, notwithstanding the popular prices netted nearly $17,000 in gate receipts. Since last year many improvements have been made at the track and the comfort of the patrons will be thoroughly provided for.

The program of the race will be practically the same as that of last year. All the ten cars which took part in the twenty-four-hour race last year have been entered for this year's event and in addition an eleventh machine, which will be a second Thomas. In the race for the $1,000 sweepstakes, seven cars have been entered and among them some of the fastest machines of the Lutzler, Lacerol, Fiat, Stearns and Thomas types.

The deed to the farm had once been in Zorber's possession but was turned over to Mrs. Kantz's attorney to await delivery of the bond and the court ruled that there was no proper delivery of the farm deed and the farm remains with the Kantz estate.

Beedle for the republican nomination for commissioner of insurance will come up on a return to an order to show cause obtained by Mr. Abbott immediately after the supreme court had denied his motion for prohibition to bring suit in that court against Secretary of State Fenn to prevent that official from placing the name of Mr. Beedle upon the official ballot and to compel him to place thereon the name of Mr. Abbott. Secretary of State Fenn is commanded to appear and show cause why he should not be temporarily enjoined from acting until the allegations of Mr. Abbott are tried out and determined. GREAT BRITAIN'S TWO CENT RATES

NEW POSTAL RULING THAT WILL INCREASE VOLUME OF MAIL.

WENT INTO EFFECT TODAY

At Least Twelve Persons in England
Will Receive Letters from Janesville Friends as a Result.

It costs an English Penny, two cents in American money, to send a letter from the United States to any part of England, Ireland, Scotland or Wales, in place of the old five cents per ounce which has been in effect for many years.

This new ruling went into effect this morning and at least twelve Janesville persons with correspondents in the British Isles took advantage of the law and sent words of greeting across the ocean stamped with a two-cent stamp.

Postmaster Valentine does not expect a great increase in the volume of business from the local office, but thinks that it will greatly increase the correspondence of the large manufacturing concerns that have foreign business. In the cities many firms have been holding their mail for several days to take advantage of the new rate and a large increase will be reported from the city offices.

The postal authorities at Washington, fearing that the new rate will be misunderstood and thus give rise to needless confusion and inconvenience, in a statement issued last night emphasized the fact that the rates on other classes of matter remain unchanged. Post cards, newspapers, parcels and the like will be carried at the old rate. In cases where errors have been made by the public the parcels will be held for postage. Letters unpaid or short paid will be delivered at their destinations, but double the deficit will be collected on delivery.

While it is expected that the lowered rate will have the effect of increasing to a considerable degree the exchange of letters between friends living on opposite sides of the ocean, the most marked increase is expected to come through the commercial houses. Many of these now employ sealed letters for high-class advertising matter, and with the same rate obtaining to London as to points within the United States it is assumed that their mailing lists will be expanded.

SCORES OF RESOLUTIONS.

President Goudy Appoints His Committees—State Organizations Are Caucused.

Albuquerque, N. M., Oct. 1.—The second day's session of the sixteenth National Irrigation congress opened Wednesday with the appointment of committees by President Goudy.

All of the state delegations were caucused and the organization was completed. The resolutions committee began its work at once, being deluged with resolutions from all sections of the country. Under the rules of the congress all resolutions introduced are received without being read. The resolutions now in the hands of the committee cover a wide range of subjects and the work of the committee promises to be prolonged. The National Association of Manufacturers has presented a resolution strongly indorsing the reclamation service and the forestry bureau. The Trans-Mississippi Dry Farming congress, the Trans-Mississippi Congress executive board and a long list of other organizations have forwarded resolutions for the consideration of the congress.

The opening address at the morning session was by John Barrett, director of the International Bureau of American Republics, who spoke on "Irrigation's rapid progress through Pan-America." W. H. Wiley of Colorado, discussed "Irrigation by Private Enterprise." The chief address of the session, however, was by D. C. Bonham of Denver, who spoke on "The National Forests and the Forest Service." The afternoon session was given over to addresses of a technical and scientific nature by a number of well-known irrigation engineers and agricultural experts.

MEET TO HELP RAILROADS

MANUFACTURERS OF MATERIAL
ORGANIZE IN NEW YORK.

Hundreds of Millions of Capital Represented in Association to Conserve Interests of the Roads.

New York, Oct. 1.—Manufacturers of railroad material, representing hundreds of millions of dollars in capital, met at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel Wednesday to form an organization to combat the attacks on railroads from legislative and other sources. As showing the importance of the meeting, it was pointed out that five of the concerns represented are capitalized at more than $100,000,000 in the aggregate.

As a direct consequence of the general attacks which have been made on railroads it was stated that some of the firms manufacturing railroad material have suffered losses amounting to 75 per cent. The steel rail interests have been especially hard hit during the past year, it was brought out, and the general railroad supply business has been injured.

Col. H. G. Pratt, vice-president and general manager of the Union Switch & Signal Company of Pittsburg, Pa., introduced a resolution which sets forth the object of the proposed organization. The resolution states that it is the desire of railroad material manufacturers to conserve the interests of the railroads, for by so doing the interests of the manufacturers will be best served. The membership of the organization, the resolution provides, is to be composed of corporations, firms and individuals doing business as manufacturers of railway materials and equipment, contractors in railway construction and dealers in miscellaneous supplies.

The chairman of the meeting was authorized to appoint a committee of 15 to decide upon the plan of organization and to recommend the names of suitable persons for officers.

At the night session officers were elected for the new organization as follows: President, George A. Post, president of the Standard Coupler Company, New York; vice-presidents, H. H. Westinghouse, Pittsburg; O. H. Cutler, New York; W. H. Marshall, New York; E. L. Keith, Sagamore, Mass.; A. H. Milliken, Chicago; O. P. Litchworth, Buffalo; treasurer, Charles A. Moore, New York.

The name finally agreed upon for the organization is the Railway Business association.

FLEET PASSES ZAMBOANGA.

Gen. Bliss and Swarms of Natives Greet the Battleships.

Manila, Oct. 1.—The Atlantic battleship fleet entered the Basilan straits at one o'clock Wednesday moving in single column. The fleet arrived opposite Zamboanga at one o'clock, finally clearing the straits on its way to Manila at four o'clock.

An interesting and picturesque demonstration of welcome was accorded the ships as they passed Zamboanga. Gen. Bliss, commanding the department of Mindanao, aboard the coast guard steamer Negro, headed a large fleet of steamers, launches and Moro vintas or native canoes, all gallily decorated. The Negroes fired the salute in honor of Admiral Sperry as the Connecticut steamed by, leading the fleet, and the flagship replied with the governor's salute in honor of Gen. Bliss, as department commander.

It is a double cut pattern, making it appear like a 4 inch stock when on the building. If you need siding, don't fail to see this lot. It is a good bargain at

MAJOR P. J. H. FARRELL, A HERO OF EIGHT WWARS, WHO HAS SERVED UNDER FOUR FLAGS.

Major P. J. H. Farrell, the new president of the army of the Philippines, has one of the most unique records that any soldier in the world can show. He has been in "only eight" wars, in command of men. He has served with distinction under four flags and is yet only 40 years old. Wherever there has been wild work in the past score years could be found his "dauntless" challenge of fate. Since peace has broken the world in the last few years he has withdrawn from his martial profession and become a surgeon. He is now recognized as an authority in his new field and is professor of military medicine and surgery at the Chicago College of Medicine and Surgery.

Although an "Englishman" by birth, he has twice served under the Stars and Stripes, once in the China expedition for the relief of Peking, and again throughout the Philippine campaign. It was in the latter that he rendered his most distinguished service. When Uncle Sam was making hurried preparations to rush 120,000 men into the Orient, Major Farrell was one of the first to volunteer his services to General Anderson. Major Farrell was in the first detachment to leave and in a position of command. He was perhaps the most prominent figure in the capture of the island of Guam, was the first of the troops to set foot in the Philippines and was the only American soldier to cross the island of Luzon, through the hostile Filipino lines at the outbreak of hostilities.

The whole Philippine insurrection holds no more daring episode than that journey of 130 miles through a wild country infested with savage enemies, and on mission that was fraught with most important results. It was on Major Farrell's report after his successful campaign was based. "Lighting savages," he says, "is an everyday sort of business."

Major Farrell is the son of General Farrell, a noted Irish officer in the British Indian service, and was born in Calcutta 44 years ago. Owing to his remarkable physical development, he was admitted to Woolwich at an earlier age than most boys, and for he was 20 when commissioned a subaltern and saw his first service in India during the Afghan war. He returned to England a veteran when most lads of his age were still at school, and at the outbreak of the Zulu war he was again at the front. In this campaign he was seriously wounded. Near him the French prince Imperial was killed. At the close of the Zulu war he was sent to the Sudan and served in the Gordon relief expedition.

Back on horseback, in one of the skirmishes with the dervishes of the Mahdi, he received another almost fatal wound. He and his command charged three times into the thickest of the Mahdi's men. He was 18 months in the hospital after that. After that he visited South Africa and India again, and also went to Manila. At the outbreak of the Tonkin war between China and France he offered his services to the Chinese government. He was given command of a regiment and fought through the whole campaign. Unfamiliar with the language of his men, he was forced in order to give commands when his men went into action.

At the close of the war he drifted to Australia and became a member of the governor's staff in Queensland as an inspector of mounted police. Hearing of a possible mixup between the republic of Guatemala and San Salvador, he came to America, but remained in San Francisco until the Chilian revolution. He joined the army of General Balmaceda in the conflict of 1891 and after his commander's defeat found himself a prisoner for two months. Only the fact that he was a British subject prevented his being shot.

There are two episodes of his life of which little is known. One is that of his supposed connection with the expedition to carry arms to Chili, which was nipped by the capture of the schooner Robert and Minnie by the United States government. The second was a mysterious mission from which he returned with a serious wound, which confined him to the hospital for several months.

Major Farrell is an ideal soldier in appearance. He stands over six feet tall, without an ounce of overweight, and is erect and lithe in carriage. Ten years ago he married an American girl after a steamer courtship, voyaging from Honolulu, and is the father of five children. His boys are all trained athletes; horsemen and marksmen. His two youngest astonished the keeper of a shooting gallery, recently by making five bullseyes each in rapid succession.

Did You Buy Premium or Coffee?
I wonder how many women have purchased premiums when they thought they were buying coffee. One case will illustrate the fallacy of buying coffee in any other way than on its merits as coffee.

One lady had bought from a very nice canvasser, and with her first order for coffee she was given a beautiful china plate valued at $1.50, but she was bound to buy 30 lbs. of coffee before the plate was actually hers.

Here is an analysis of the proposition she got, and there are many others who got similar propositions: The coffee, which cost her 25c a pound, was worth not a single penny over 18c a pound, and any dealer can duplicate it for that. This leaves her paying 7c per pound on the premium. When she has purchased 30 lbs. she will have paid $2.10 for a plate valued at $1.50, and she is compelled to drink coffee which if offered her in a restaurant she would stamp as "rotten." No other word seems applicable.

I would like to have every lady who has passed through such an ordeal try Golden Blend, as I am sure it will suit. It is a coffee worth 25c a lb., a coffee superior to any other 25c coffee, a blend of coffee designed as a standard of what good coffee should be. I DO give premiums with Golden Blend, but they are a secondary matter and are offered to introduce the coffee, but primarily I sell coffee, Golden Blend, and a better coffee you cannot find at the price.

If you will try a pound of Golden Blend upon my recommendation, and if it fails to suit your taste, I will blend specially for you in half-pound lots and make you a present of the coffee until I have suited your taste. Phone an order today for Golden Blend.

From the board to which he is strapped, Tony looks out toward the Navesink highlands and sees the ships that pass. So long has he watched these ships that their observation is now a consuming passion with the little one, who is a sufferer from tuberculosis of the bone. If one wishes to know how many ships have moved in the transatlantic shuttle back and forth across the horizon, little Tony knows. His daily count is a accurate as that taken at the customs house.

Tony is a privileged character in this wonderful home, where pain is home with a smile, and of all the little children who are benefiting by this splendid New York charity none is more interesting than this marine observer for the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor. If you ever go to visit Tony you must be very careful to lean over his crib on the land side, for otherwise a ship might pass and Tony lose his count.

The Royal Automobile club of London proposes to erect a new automobile clubhouse which will cost $1,000,000, on the site of the old war office in London. For 220 feet its fine stone frontage will extend along Pall Mall. With a depth of 130 feet to the park and a height of 80 feet, its magnitude will dwarf even the proportions of the Carlton club adjoining, while the beauty of its architecture will add much to Pall Mall's artistic aspect. In one of the basements will be a magnificent swimming bath nearly 100 feet in length. The club house will be the most extensive, the most artistic and the most costly ever erected in the world.

A REFORM APPEAL

That reform is in the air is evidenced by the fact that the National Model License League, an organization of distillers, brewers, wine makers, wholesalers and retailers, with headquarters here, will begin on October 2, the distribution of an address to the saloon-keepers of the United States.

The address is written by Mr. T. L. Gilmore, president of the League. Attention is called to the fact that the people are opposed to the lawless saloon and to the evils which have been connected to a greater or less extent with the sale of alcoholic beverages. Saloon-keepers are warned that they must either respect public sentiment and obey the law, or lose their legal right to do business.

The address is as follows:

"The prohibition wave that was sweeping over the country would seem to be on the wane, but the protest on the part of the people against the lawless saloon, the dive and the gambling resort is not subsiding, but is exhibiting its force in local option conflicts.

"The people are demanding and properly that their laws shall be obeyed.

"Society is moving forward and the saloon must move forward or be outlawed. The edict has gone forth that men must be sober if they would be free and few men will now contend that a man possesses an inherent right to overthrow his reason.

"The edict has gone forth that saloons must obey all laws—that they must not sell to intoxicated men, nor to habitual drunkards, nor to minors—that they must not exhibit improper pictures, nor connect themselves with gambling resorts—in a word that the saloon must not be a nuisance.

"The press of the country has so declared; the ministers have so declared; the law and order leagues have so declared; the great conservative element in society has so declared.

"These forces for good are all powerful in society and our trade cannot afford to oppose them.

"It would be foolish for us to oppose them even though we could do so successfully; because the demands they are making are our demands.

"Our trade needs a house cleaning and we should aid the good work along. The saloon that is run in violation of the law or of decency should be put out of business and the better element in the trade should continue to lead in the reform.

"A saloon should be a decent resort; it should be the workingman's club; it should inculcate real temperance; it should give thought, first of all, to the welfare of its patrons; it should consider the home, the wife and the children; it should seek to elevate and not degrade those who visit it, and if it is run in violation of law its license should be canceled.

"Could such conditions do harm to the business? Is it unprofitable to be decent; to be law-abiding; to be kind; to do unto others as you would have them do unto you? We think that all of this would pay—and it would relieve the business of odium and it would permit prohibition to die a happy and peaceful death.

"I do not write this letter through any fear of prohibition, because an experience of more than a half century tells us that prohibition will not prohibit, and common sense tells us that prohibition will not prohibit and the statistics of the internal revenue department show conclusively that prohibition does not prohibit, but I write because I think the saloon is liable to be superseded by unlawful sellers of alcoholic beverages, as is the case now in all prohibition territory, and because I think the saloon can be and should be a desirable and not an undesirable factor in society.

"I write it because I think the press is right, because I think the law and order leagues are right, because I think the ministers who teach what the Bible teaches are right, because I think the great conservative element in society is right.

"I write it because I know that the larger majority of saloon-keepers want to obey the law; want to see their business elevated; want to bid the drunkard an eternal farewell, and it is my hope that in the not distant future every saloon-keeper who favors law, order, decency and temperance will join the National Model License League, and will stand as we stand with the real forces of reform and fully abreast of the most advanced public sentiment.

"The Gazette publishes this letter to show the attitude of the men whose business has suffered and who are compelled by public sentiment to recognize the lawlessness which horetore they have ignored. It ignores prohibition is ineffective, but law and order is a different proposition.

"The fact that the saloon will continue to exist, in many localities, is generally conceded, but it must be law-respecting and law-abiding, with the manufacturers determined to make it so, there is good reason to believe that it will be.

William Randolph Hearst is the liveliest proposition that ever invaded a national campaign. His stock of letters seems to be inexhaustible, and their originality is not questioned. Mr. Archbold, of the Standard Oil, explains that a dishonest clerk is responsible for the leak. That is unfortunate for Mr. Archbold and his correspondents, but does not affect public sentiment in the least.

Taft's reception in Nebraska indicates that Bryan is likely to lose his own state, but the citizens have the satisfaction of knowing that they won't lose Bryan. He is a fixture and will continue to hawk corn and grind out Commoner editorials, at the old stand.

The city should devise some plan to let sewer contracts earlier in the season. The streets, in poor condition at best, will be next to impassable when cold weather comes, with unfinished trenches in many parts of the city.

Four hundred saloons in Ohio will retire from business as the result of local option recently adopted by the people. The model license league has occasion to sit up and take notice.

It is fortunate for the people of Oklahoma that their new governor came to grief, early in his career. The state will now have a chance for a breathing spell and a little sober thinking.

When the President takes the stump there will be something doing. The big attack on close range is more effective than sizzling epistles.

Residents of the third ward are waiting for an opportunity to see water run uphill in some of the new gutters which seem to be planned for that purpose.

When it's Over

Now the poor candidate, in piteous tone, Makes an appeal to move a heart of stone— But the vast public—better things in sight— Hurries away and leaves him all alone.

"I'd speak," he cries, "of national issues that Should away republican and 'democrat'— And a fierce voice exclaims, 'Shut up— Close up your trap—the Cubs are at the bat.'"

"I wish to tell you of the awful fate before our nation," should the candidate—

"Say, how's Detroit?" a shrieking query comes. Mixed with the news that Smith "is pitching great."

When the last bat has cracked the final ball.

And championships are won, both great and small,

Then, not before then, will the nation turn To politics, just as a sport for fall.

Origin of the Name of Ireland.

The name of Ireland, according to Prof. Joyce, who is authority on the antiquities of the country, is derived from the native Celtic name Eire. Just as the name of Scotland is derived from the name of Scott, the terminal being added in both cases by the English and originally spelled Eireland and Scotland. Ithieria was the Roman name, sometimes spelled Ithierian, as Scythia was the Roman name for Scotland.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

Copyright, 1908, by Edwin A. Nye.

WHY? WHY? WHY?

Why does a baseball pitcher receive $10,000 a year for his work and a settlement worker only $600 a year?

Why is the president of a life insurance company paid $100,000 in salary and perquisites, while the hard worked head of a school draws a meager wage?

Why do we pay the highest price to the man who saves our dollars and the lowest price to the man who saves our souls?

Why does the world offer fortunes to the man who shows us how to make money and starvation wages to the man who shows us how to make beautiful lives?

Why do we accord highest place to money mongers and lowest place to teachers of ideals?

Why do men fuse body and soul, brain and conscience, into a frenzied money madness?

Simply because the fullness of time has not yet come for a people to discard false standards of civilization, because our people have not held the right estimates of human life. We have stumbled over the definition of the supreme good. Here and there noble men have pointed us to higher ideals, but we have not heeded.

But—

Thank goodness, a change is coming over the spirit of American dreams. We are beginning to raise right standards.

It is this way:

Heretofore only the material things have concerned us. We must master a continent. We must grapple the globe with our commerce. In this accomplishment we have grasped the occult forces of nature and solved, as no other people have solved, the problem of the production of wealth.

Now we must stop!

We are up against a greater problem—the EQUITABLE DISTRIBUTION of wealth.

Ah, that is different! When you start to study THAT problem you run against all sorts of moral laws—humanitarianism, justice, righteousness. You begin to see how false is the standard that pays the MOST to him who ministers to the LOWEST and the LEAST to him who ministers to the HIGHEST.

And so—

We are beginning to see that MEN, and not MONEY, are the supreme good; that the greatest wealth is CHARACTER; that the only real things worth producing are MANKIND and WOMANKIND.

The First Requisite.

Qualitative: The beginning of excellence is to be free from error.

Rushing the Sewer Work: Work on the sewer sewer contracts is being rushed since the appearance of cold weather. The excavation on South Second street from Main to East street and thence as far south as Mrs. Williams' residence is well underway and interested property owners are keeping jealous watch over the proceedings and will see to it that the surface of one of the best macadam streets in the city is properly replaced, or know the reason why. A number of Italian laborers arrived from Chicago last evening.

GALBRAITH & SON HAVE MOVED STOCK TO DE KALB, ILL.

Piece of Boomerang Legislation Partially Responsible for Departure—Will Retain Office Here a Year.
Janesville people will learn with keen regret that Alexander Galbraith & Son have not only definitely decided to leave this city and establish headquarters in DeKalb, Ill., but have already moved all their stock to the new location. They are to occupy what are known as the Elwood stables in the Illinois city during the same period. For nearly a quarter of a century the British horses imported by the Galbraiths have been the prizes which they have taken at the exhibitions in this and neighboring states have materially helped to keep Janesville and its varied attractions in the public eye. Several considerations entered into the decision of the firm to remove to DeKalb. One of them was the piece of fool legislation enacted at Madison which makes all commercial paper taken in exchange for stallions non-negotiable in Wisconsin. The object of this law was to drive irresponsible and shyster dealers in ill-bred and worthless horses out of the state. It met with success to have been to make business companies impossible for responsible horsemen. Necessarily, most of the sales are made on time and if a firm cannot discount its notes it must either submit to having a large amount of capital tied up for a long time, or move out. Inducements offered by certain interests in DeKalb constituted one of the secondary considerations.

MISS ZELIA HARRIS DIED THIS MORNING

Had Been Unconscious For Several Days Past and End Came Without Suffering in Perfect Peace.
Miss Zelie Harris passed into the life beyond at Mercy Hospital at half past four o'clock this morning. During the last few days she had been unconscious and the end came without suffering and in perfect peace. She had been ill for over a year but under the constant and tender care of her family she was thought to be improving until some weeks ago when the disease again developed. Miss Harris was a native of Janesville. She was born March 24th, 1862, and her home had always been in this city. Her long residence here, her cheerful disposition, her interest in social affairs and brightness in conversation, as well as the deeper qualities and services of her heart and life, had made her a large number of friends, among whom her going will leave a sadly vacant place. Miss Harris' mother preceded her into the heavenly home five years ago and there remains here of the immediate family her father, James Harris, her sister, Miss Ida Harris, and her brother, Arthur J. Harris, all of whom reside in Janesville. The funeral services will be held at the family residence, 158 South Jackson St., Saturday afternoon at half past two o'clock.

The funeral services of the late J. G. Wray were held this afternoon at two o'clock from the home at No. 47 Milwaukee Ave. The Rev. J. W. Laughlin of the Presbyterian church, to which Mr. Wray belonged, officiated and paid a touching tribute to the worth and services of the deceased. The members of the I. O. O. F. attended the funeral services in a body as did the local post of the G. A. R., to both of which the deceased belonged.

The pallbearers were: L. M. Nelson, E. E. Beck, George D. Hart, H. Conroy, A. Starr, and L. L. Conant, all former comrades of Mr. Wray's in the army.

John Frederick Masterson.
The funeral services of John Frederick Masterson, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Masterson of the town of Lima, were held from the home this morning at ten o'clock. The interment was in the Oak Hill cemetery.

STORE HERE PERMANENTLY

Edward H. Bilske, proprietor of the Royal Clothing Store has the following statement to make in regard to his business:
"I wish to assure the people of Janesville, that my store at 12 So. River street is to be here permanently, that it is not to be here but temporarily as it has been rumored; that we closed the store yesterday for an hour to rearrange the stock, the business had been so brisk in the morning we could not put the stock back. I will say further that I am willing to put up a bond of $500 to the city of Janesville if it is required, providing the city will pay me interest on the money."

"EDWARD H. BILSKIE"
Very Effective.

Something more than quiet humor is in this paragraph, printed at the end of the program issued by a certain theater that shall be nameless: "Any old ladies afraid of taking cold may keep on their hats or bonnets."

SEASON OPENS ON SATURDAY, OCT. 3

Janesville High School Team Will Meet Team from Lake Mills Here.

On next Saturday afternoon the football season for the local high school eleven will open with the game which will be played with the team from the Lake Mills high school. The Lake Mills players will come here for the game, which will take place at Athletic Park and will be called at 3:30 p. m.

Owing to the fact that the fence around the park has been destroyed, a new plan of selling tickets has been adopted. Instead of regular admissions being sold, tickets to be worn in the night will be disposed of to the spectators.

The appearance of this clock will show that the wearer is entitled to witness the game. The clock will vary for each game. A number of the boys will act as check-keepers and see that everyone has a chance to contribute.

One week from next Saturday, on Oct. 10, comes the game with the Hotel Academy team in Janesville and a week later the eleven from Monroe will appear on the local gridiron. The boys are determined to end the season with a clean record of victories and can be depended upon to put up a hard fast game. Open play will bring support to those who attend can be expected of witnessing a good strong spectacular contest.

MANY IMPROVEMENTS BY NORTHWESTERN

Among Other Things Will be New Platform at the Depot—Changes in Yards.

The Northwestern road is doing much with its equipment here in the way of improving it. At the new yards, pillars of cement are being put in nearer the sewer basin on which to set part of the old boiler hoist which was used at the old roundhouse and this will be used in emptying the basin, which is the emptying place of all the sewers throughout the roundhouse. The old roundhouse is being rapidly torn down under the supervision of Bridge Foreman Thos. Reardon, who has thirty-five or forty Greeks at work and only a part of the side walls on the side toward North street remain. One still is being left, which will be rebuilt and fixed up so that the motor car may be stored there this coming winter. The brick, columns and the timbers which are of any value are being shipped to Manitowish, Wis., as fast as cars can be secured to send them, where they are being used in putting five additional stalls on the roundhouse there. "At sewer, four hundred feet in length has been put in at the west end of the bridge at Monterey to carry off the water which, when it rained, had been washing out the bank. This sewer was a piece of work that was very difficult of accomplishment as the water in the bank caused the level of the sewer to sink during the night. It was finally accomplished and there are now about two hundred feet of filling sewer, one hundred feet of box and one hundred feet of open sewer which have been put in there in the last three weeks.

At the passenger depot, a tank will be placed in the grass plot at the lower end of the train shed and this will furnish the pressure for the steam locomotive which is to be put up, the water pressure from the city water mains not being strong enough to furnish it to the engines as it is needed. The platform will be cut so that the main track can be moved over two feet, leaving a space of seven feet between the north bound track and the south-bound track. In place of the old wooden platform will be a brick pavement with a cement curbing. 38,000 brick will be used in this platform.

GALLUP GIRLS SET AT LIBERTY AGAIN

Parents Refused to Sign Complaint Which Would Send Them to the Milwaukee Industrial School.

Mr. and Mrs. John P. Gallup, who are now residing near the county home road, just off the stone quarry cut, and who called upon the police department yesterday to locate their runaway daughters, Julia and Beattie, at the same time indicating a willingness to sign complaints which would send the children to the Girls' Industrial school in Milwaukee, were not disposed to abide by the tacit agreement when the erring daughters were brought into the municipal judge's office this morning. Instead, they asked that the girls be given another chance to go home with them and behave themselves. After a lengthy conference the officers finally consented to this arrangement, with the understanding that no such lunacy should be shown another time. Julia is seventeen years of age and Beattie is fourteen. One of them had been living in the Riverside hotel for three days and was picked up here last evening and the other was captured in the company of ten days at a skating rink in Beloit. Both girls are in the women's cell at the city lock-up. The girl who was taken in Beloit is the same one who was recently found in questionable company in Chicago. The pair have given the night patrolmen considerable trouble from time to time and neither the mother, who is in poor health, nor the father, who seems able to exercise much parental control over them.

DR. KOCH ROUSES WARM DISCUSSION

DEFENDS THEORY OF BOVINE
TUBERCLE BACILLI.

NOT DANGEROUS FOR MEN

Other Experts at International Congress Vigorously Combat Views of the Eminent German—Praise for New York.

Washington, Oct. 1.—That his declaration at the British Congress on Tuberculosis in London, in 1901, that "human beings may be infected by bovine tubercle bacilli, but serious diseases from this cause occur very rarely" has undergone no modification, was emphasized by Dr. Robert Koch, the eminent authority, before the International Congress on Tuberculosis here Wednesday.

Dr. Koch stated that he still entertains the opinion he then expressed, and which has been reinforced as the results of experiments conducted after making the statement which attracted so much attention in the scientific world. While admitting that human beings may be infected by bovine tubercle bacilli, Dr. Koch said that "up to date in no case of pulmonary tuberculosis in man has the tubercle bacillus of the bovine type been definitely demonstrated."

Plans Elaborate Experiments.
He still holds that pulmonary tuberculosis is produced by the tubercle bacilli of the human type exclusively, and declared that our regulations for combating tuberculosis must by all means be directed against that source of the disease. He made known Wednesday for the first time that in view of the great importance of this phase of the question, he intended to undertake as soon as feasible experiments along this line on a broad scale.

"At the same time I wish to make my plea to other tuberculosis workers in order that as many cases as possible may be examined," said Dr. Koch, "to join me vigorously in this task. But I wish to lay stress on the fact that the conditions laid down by me for carrying out these investigations must be followed. I consider it quite possible that in this matter the essential facts for deciding this important question may be collected in about two years and be presented in the next international congress."

Discussion is Lively.
Dr. Koch made the above unequivocal statement at a joint session of sections two and seven of the congress when the subject of "the relations of human and bovine tuberculosis" was discussed. Many of the most eminent scientists in the world participated, including Drs. S. Arloing, Lyons, France; Nathan Rawl, Liverpool, Eng.; Prof. Theobald Smith, Boston; Johannes Fibinger and C. O. Jensen, Denmark, who offered Dr. Koch's contentions, and Drs. J. N. Davidson and J. Cartmyn of Havana, Cuba, and others who supported him.

Dr. Arloing, in combatting the views of Dr. Koch, declared himself a staunch adherent of the doctrine of the unity of the tubercle bacillus and pointed out the necessity of taking precautions against the tubercle bacillus virus, whatever may be its origin.

Praise for New York's Work.
Without any intimation of what he was to say, Dr. Koch earlier in the day took an active part in an informal discussion in the section on state and municipal control of tuberculosis following the reading of a paper by Dr. Herman M. Biggs, general medical officer of the department of health of New York city, on "The Administrative Control of Tuberculosis." Dr. Koch gave unstinted praise to what he termed the fine example set by Dr. Biggs in combatting tuberculosis in New York city. He expressed the belief that the successful execution of the measures undertaken by Dr. Biggs represents one of the most important features of the war against tuberculosis. He declared that he hoped every municipality would adopt the example set by New York in waging war on tuberculosis.

GOV. HANLY VINDICATED.
Indiana Lower House Makes Scapgoat of Senator Wickwire.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 1.—The legislative inquiry into the bribery charges made against Gov. Hanly and Senator Wickwire by Representative Kinsey ended in a complete vindication for the governor, a finding that Representative Kinsey would not have accepted a bribe if tendered, and the making of a scapegoat of Senator Wickwire by the house. A resolution of confidence in Senator Wickwire was adopted by the senate. The house report took Representative Kinsey mildly to task for making his affidavit, and declared Senator Wickwire had no authority to offer any position, if he did tender such, for a vote on county option. The house report was unanimous. Immediately after its adoption the house adjourned sine die.

SUTHERLANDS' - - 12 South Main Street, Janesville, Wis.

MR. TAFT INVADES BRYAN'S OWN CITY

DEFENDS PUBLICITY POLICY OF PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT.

SPEAKS OFTEN IN LINCOLN

Gov. Hughes Ends West Virginia
Tour—Sherman's Trip Over Trolley Roads in Central Illinois.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 1.—Accepting the challenge of William J. Bryan, right in the home city of the Nebraska, William H. Taft Wednesday night not only endorsed President Roosevelt's position on the question of the publicity of campaign contributions, but defended it with arguments calculated to establish that position as sound from the standpoint of public good and to show that the Bryan position was one simply for pre-election sensationalism.

Mr. Taft made 11 speeches in Nebraska Wednesday before reaching Lincoln, and five speeches in that city Wednesday night. His audiences throughout were large and enthusiastic and his reception in Lincoln was made particularly gratifying to him by the enthusiasm and friendliness exhibited by the immense crowd which greeted him. Excursion trains came to Lincoln from many places in the state during the day and the city was alive with bands, marching clubs and general campaign exhilaration and excitement.

Taft's Voice in Bad Condition.

The one disappointing feature of the Taft demonstration in Lincoln was the bad condition of the voice of the candidate. He had talked continually throughout the day in the open air, and this, added to the strain he has been under every day for the past eight days, made him decidedly hoarse.

The big meeting was held at the Auditorium which was crowded with enthusiastic supporters for Taft. It was here that the candidate paid his respects to Mr. Bryan regarding campaign contributions and what he said was heartily approved.

Talks to Workers and Students.

When the Taft special reached Lincoln shortly before four o'clock it was greeted by an immense crowd. Without alighting, however, the candidate was switched out to Havelsack where are located the repair shops of the Burlington system, and here he delivered to the workmen employed there his address on labor. He was brought back to Lincoln before five o'clock and escorted at once to the State university where at a meeting of the students presided over by Senator Harkett, he gave a short talk and met the student body. A concert and general jubilation on the capital grounds was the next feature which was carried out with a vim, and then the candidate was taken to the Auditorium, which was crowded with women, presided over by Mrs. Sheldon, wife of the governor. Here Mr. Taft made one of his characteristic talks which was received most enthusiastically.

After a dinner at the home of Gov. Sheldon he returned to head a parade which escorted him again to the Auditorium where the speech of the day was delivered. At the capital grounds demonstration, Gov. Cummins of Iowa made the principal speech and was heartily cheered for his position regarding Republican policies.

Hughes in West Virginia.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Oct. 1.—The whirlwind political tour of Gov. Charles E. Hughes of New York through West Virginia Wednesday, beginning at Clarksburg in the early morning and ending at Washington Junction late in the afternoon, was marked by large crowds and much enthusiasm.

Gov. Hughes paid much attention to the recent utterances of Mr. Bryan. He had not finished his breakfast when the train stopped at Clarksburg. At this point United States Senator Nathan B. Scott and W. E. Glasscock, the Republican harmony program candidate for governor, and Congressman William Hubbard boarded the train.

Sherman After Farmer Vote.

Decatur, Ill., Oct. 1.—After a day of active campaigning through the heart of the corn-belt district, traveling in a private car over various trolley lines in an effort to reach the farmer vote, James B. Sherman, Republican vice-presidential nominee and his party, including Congressman Nicholas Longworth and William H. McKinley, wound up the day's work with a big rally here Wednesday night.

Four towns were visited, including this city. Urbana, Champaign and Monticello were in the itinerary and many thousands of voters induced by the ideal weather turned out to listen to the speech making. At Monticello, the last stop before reaching here, the party was joined by Senator A. J. Hopkins of Aurora, who addressed an outdoor audience there of several thousand.

Stock Exchanges Seats Cheaper.

New York, Oct. 1.—A New York stock exchange seat was sold Wednesday for $55,000, which is $2,000 less than the last previous sale, and about $20,000 less than was paid before last year's depression began.

Ferry Is Sunk; 140 Drown.

Smyrna, Oct. 1.—A Turkish steamship ran down the steam ferry boat Stamboul outside the harbor Wednesday. One hundred and forty persons were drowned.

BRYAN ENDS HIS WHIRLWIND TRIP

THREE WEEKS' TRIP IS CLOSED WITH SPEECHES IN IOWA.

HEARD BY GREAT CROWDS

Dr. Cox of New York Made Assistant Treasurer of Democratic Committee—Cockran to Take the Stamp.

Crescent, Ia., Oct. 1.—Traversing the southeastern and southern portions of Iowa, all day in an ordinary coach, William J. Bryan concluded his whirlwind speech-making tour of more than three weeks at this place Wednesday night, where a big open air meeting was held.

No greater demonstrations have been accorded anywhere than in Iowa, from the moment he entered until he left it. When he took a late train for Lincoln he had delivered during the day 15 speeches to immense crowds, a considerable number of whom were farmers, who manifested the greatest interest in what he had to say. In all of these he devoted himself principally to the discussion of the platform of the two parties with special reference to publicity of campaign contributions, election of senators by direct vote, and the tariff.

Attacks President and Taft.

He was unapologetic in his attacks on the president and Mr. Taft and once again declared that the president had degraded the high office he holds by participating in the campaign instead of leaving Mr. Taft and himself to fight it out alone. As for Mr. Taft, the Democratic candidate heaped upon him the severest criticism, accusing him, among other things, of borrowing all his ideas from the Democrats and other sources and originating nothing. He specifically answered at Oskaloosa and Knoxville Mr. Taft's recent speeches regarding the source of the campaign funds of the respective parties, but more particularly the one in which Mr. Taft stated the Democratic candidate had "done nothing but talk," while he himself had been putting his ideas into practice in administrative way.

Dr. Cox Assistant Treasurer.

New York, Oct. 1.—National Chairman Mack Wednesday appointed Dr. John W. Cox of this city assistant treasurer of the Democratic national committee with headquarters in New York. A. J. Dooley will continue to act in a similar capacity in the treasurer's office in Chicago. Dr. Cox, who is a close friend of Mr. Bryan, took up his duties at headquarters Thursday and will aid Treasurer Hilder in the collection of campaign funds.

Mr. Mack said that W. Bourke Cockran will take the stamp for Mr. Bryan on October 12 when he will make a speech in Indiana. Mr. Cockran will speak also in New Jersey, Maryland, West Virginia and New York. Theodore A. Bell of California, temporary chairman of the Denver convention, will speak in Buffalo on October 23.

Haskell Replies Again.

Guthrie, Okla., Oct. 1.—Gov. Charles N. Haskell, late treasurer of the Democratic national committee, Wednesday night gave, out a long letter to President Roosevelt in which he repeats his already published defense to the charges made against him.

Michigan Independence Ticket.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Oct. 1.—The Independence party state convention was held here Wednesday. There were but six delegates in attendance, but a complete state ticket was nominated, headed by A. W. Nicholls of Montcalm, for governor.

Mother and Son Accused of Murder.

Mount Carmel, Ill., Oct. 1.—Mrs. L. Lucas and her son Jesse were arrested here Wednesday for the murder of Clyde Sheveller, whose body was found in the Patoka river two years ago.

BABE BORN AMONG CASTAWAYS.

Passengers of the Aeon, Increased by One, Reach Suva.

Suva, Fiji Islands, Oct. 1.—The castaways from the British steamer Aeon, who spent nearly two months on Christmas Island, an almost barren coral formation in the Pacific ocean, arrived here Wednesday on the steamer Manuka of the Canadian-Australian line, all well and increased by one in number. A daughter was born to the wife of Captain B. R. Patrick, U. S. N., 24 hours before the Manuka was sighted, and this event was made the occasion of much rejoicing.

The Manuka reached Christmas Island on September 23. Six hundred bags of mail were transferred to the steamer during the night and the passengers and crew of the Aeon were taken aboard the next morning.

King of Roumania Is Better.

Bucharest, Roumania, Oct. 1.—It was learned here Wednesday that King Charles, who is at Sibiu, in the Carpathian mountains, recently suffered a serious fainting fit which lasted for three hours. This was the origin of the alarming reports regarding his majesty's condition. It was officially declared that the general health of the king was much improved.

Ferry Is Sunk; 140 Drown.

LEAGUE BASEBALL RESULTS.

New York is again in the lead for the pennant race, as the result of Wednesday's play in the National League. The sensational possibilities of the race are well exemplified by the fact that Thursday morning not one of the three leading clubs was in the position which it occupied before Wednesday's games were played. Chicago, in the lead Wednesday fell to third place. Its drop to this point was due to the victory of Pittsburgh over St. Louis, and of New York over Philadelphia, while the Champions were losing to Cincinnati. Chicago is now two points behind Pittsburgh, which is four points removed from New York. The chances for the last-named club to land the flag emblematic of the league championship are vastly bettered by Wednesday's turn of events. It is still anybody's pennant, however, the positions of all three clubs potentially hanging on a single day's play.

In the American League only two of the leading clubs, Cleveland and Detroit, took part in games. Both won and the relative standing of the three leaders was not changed, except that the winning clubs each drew three points further away from Chicago, not scheduled to play. The standing in the two leagues follows:

NATIONAL LEAGUE.
Club.	Won.	Lost.	Per cent.
New York	31	13	.706
Pittsburgh	28	16	.636
Chicago	24	20	.545

Cincinnati	22	22	.500

Baseball games played on Wednesday resulted as follows in runs, hits and errors:

NATIONAL LEAGUE.
At New York—New York, 5, 7, 2; Philadelphia, 1, 6, 2.
At Pittsburgh—Pittsburgh, 7, 10, 3; St. Louis, 5, 6, 2.

The New Back

—You Must Have It to Be Really in Fashion

THE proper figure of today has the new habit back and follows the slender, girlish lines of beauty. The hipless effect is more the rage than ever before.

No matter what your figure is, you may further bring out its perfections and hide its small defects by wearing one of the new Gossard models.

No other corset produces the perfect habit back.

No other corset proves such a joy to the dressmaker in giving her a perfect figure to fit—such a satisfaction to the wearer in knowing that she is absolutely perfect in contour.

THE Gossard
CORSETS
"They lace In Front"

are different from any other corset—because they lace in front, and they produce a snug, sloping, unbroken line from hip to limb, without that unsightly cut at the bottom, common with back-lacing corsets.

MRS. BROWN, who is this week exploiting Gossard Corsets at our store, will prove to you clearly just why Gossard are different from any other—how they perfectly support the spine—leave plenty of freedom for the vital organs, and produce a correct figure without restricting in any point.

Better come in at once, and let her explain the Gossard to you.

BIG PUNCH FOR JAPANESE

General Report Is That There Will Be Plenty of Business This Fall.

Janesville factories are reported to be getting down to rush work and with the revival of trade comes orders from all parts of the globe for Janesville products. While the local factories are not as large as some of their competitors their workmanship appears to be in demand as is illustrated by the order from a Japanese firm for a monster punch to be shipped for use in Japan.

This monster punch is to be built by the Rock River Machine Company, who received the order through their New York representative. It came in some time ago and the patterns have been made and shipped to the foundry for casting. This machine when completed will be the largest machine ever built by this shop and will weigh twenty-eight thousand pounds. This is the largest order they have had for some time, but at the same time they are running their factory ten hours a day and have at present enough orders to keep busy until New Year.

The Janesville Shirt & Overall company have settled in the addition which was recently made to their factory and have increased their working force and the number of machines in order to keep up with the demand for their goods. Their representatives started out on the road Monday and though they have been out but a few days and have seen but a few of their customers, yet it orders come in as rapidly as they have been coming, they will soon have to be recalled in order that the factory may catch up with their work.

The Haworth Springs Water Company are sending out small shipments of their goods all the time and while trade is not as brisk as it might be, yet it is nothing to complain of as yet. They expect to start to work next week with a full force.

The Rock River Batten company have started up their factory again after stopping a short time for repairs. There will be work for the regular force for the next few months.

The Strickler Hay Tool company report business as being good. They are working in the factory on their regular spring orders and soliciting orders for next year.

The Budget State Machine company report business as good as usual. There have been no very large shipments, but there has been a good run of business right along. Their full force are working full time.

The Western Shoe company report a nice lot of spring orders coming in as the result of the labors of their four traveling men on the road. A new up-to-date piece of shoe-making machinery has just been installed in the factory and with this they expect to increase their capacity quite materially.

At the Soft Paper Box factory the force are busy working on an order from the Albany Hardware Specialty company which calls for a carload of their product. Local orders are coming in regular and the prospects for a busy season are very good.

The quality and style of the Wisconsin Carriage company's carriages was shown at the Elkhorn Fair, where they secured the blue ribbon for the best wheel design and were in competition with all of the well-known and standard lines of vehicles. At present they are looking lots of orders for spring shipments, and are working ten hours a day on cutters. This will give them work for the next two months.

The Janesville Machine company have moved their offices to the floor above while the regular office is being torn out and enlarged.

PULLED REVOLVERS ON A TRAIN CREW

Two Men Arrested Near Monroe for Threatening Crew When They Got Trains.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Monroe, Wis., Oct. 1.—Edward Mc-
Mar, Milwaukee, and Harry Smith, Chicago, were arrested at Chicago this morning after flashing revolvers on the train crew of a southbound Illinois Central passenger train at that station. They attempted to steal a ride on the "blind" baggage, behind the engine, when they were fired off the cars. They boarded the train again and when driven away the accused time they pulled revolvers. Deputy Sheriff Christ Zweifel went to Chicago and caught the men in a mile side of the station while working along the track toward Monroe.
They had no guns on their persons when arrested. They were brought to Monroe and are in jail.

Twelve candidates for county offices at the recent primary election have so far failed to file statements of money expended, during the campaign up to last night, the thirty days in which they could file expiring tonight. All will be subject to a fine of from $25 to $500 under the election law.

The city is confronted with a problem of how to care for the sewage flowing from the Jordan Condensed Milk plant, the present sewer line being inadequate. A cement reservoir to be built near the milk plant, has been proposed. The tank would hold the surplus sewage during the day and distribute it during the night but in such case the disposal plant would be worked at night and the bacteria would not have opportunity to perform their function. Another sewer line also proposed but the obstacle in the case is the inability of the disposal plant to handle the rush that would be thrown upon it. Either scheme would cost the city at least $4,000. It is apparent that one of the two projects must be carried out and that an addition must be built this fall to the disposal plant.

The three children of Thomas Harvey of Brodhead have been taken to the state home for dependent children at Sparta. The children were deserted by the mother, who ran away from home a month ago and the factor is too foolish to care for them.

STOP DRINKING

Orrine Destroys the Craving for Drink. Cure Effectual or Money Refunded.

It was formerly customary for the habitual drinker to take the pledge regularly, sometimes once a year, and sometimes in every fit of remorse that followed his debauches, and then break it.

But now it is gradually dawning on the world that pledges do not stop drunkenness. When a man takes a pledge voluntarily, he expects to keep it.
Every man expects to keep his word, and every broken pledge costs the drunkard many a headache, but he cannot help it. He fights as long as he can, then succumbs to the craving. The nervous system of the habitual drinker is diseased and he must have treatment that will cure his condition.

Orrine is sold under a positive guarantee to cure the drink habit or the money will be refunded. No other treatment for the liquor habit is sold with such a liberal guarantee.

Orrine is prepared in two forms:
No. 1 a powder, perfectly tasteless and colorless, which can be given secretly in any food or drink. Orrine No.
2 is in pill form for those who wish to be cured of the habit, and it should be taken by every one who swears off.

No matter which form of Orrine is used the guarantee is the same. The price of Orrine is $1.00 per box, mailed in plain sealed wrapper upon receipt of price. Write for free booklet on "How to Cure Drunkenness" (mailed in plain, sealed envelope) by The Orrine Co., Washington, D. C. Orrine is sold by People's Drug Company and King's Pharmacy.

Attorney General
GIVES AN OPINION

Says Candidates Need Not File Expense Accounts Until After the Fall Election.

Attorney General P. L. Gilbert has given an opinion that candidates at the primaries need not file election expense accounts until after the election next month. The opinion was given in response to a request from Senator Isaac Stephenson. The part of the law in question reads as follows: "Every person who shall be a candidate before any convention or at any primary or election shall within thirty days after the election file with the clerk of the election board a statement of expenses."

The attorney holds that the primary is not an election "held to fill such office" and that candidates need not file expense accounts until thirty days after election.

A Burglar Scare: When the lady left in charge of the Lawson home, corner of South Third and Division streets, found that silverware and other valuables worth $500 were missing from a secret well-locked and that a burglar had been punched in the screen door leading to the cellar, she communicated with the police station.
Chief Appleby and Officer Sam
Brown, after making an examination of the premises, sent a message to Mrs. Lawson, who, with her husband, was visiting out of town. The latter replied that she before leaving she had placed the valuables in another part of the house.

JANESVILLE WOMEN ARE FINDING RELIEF AT LAST

It does seem that women have more than a fair share of the aches and pains that afflict humanity; they must "keep up" must attend to duties in spite of constantly aching backs, or headaches, dizzy spells, bearing-down pains; they must stoop over, when to stoop means torture, they must walk and bend and work with racking pains and many aches from kidney ills.
Kidneys cause more suffering than any other organ of the body. Keep the kidneys well and health is easily maintained. Read of a remedy for kidneys only that heals and cures the N. Bluff St., Janesville, Wis., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills at different times for several years passed whenever my kidneys needed a tonic and have always received the best of results. My system was filled with uric acid poison and other symptoms showed a disordered condition of my kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills rid me of this trouble and since then other members of my family have taken them with equally good results. I do not hesitate to say that I consider Doan's Kidney Pills one of the best kidney remedies on the market

THE PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN
OF 1796
PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN OF 1792.

The first years of national life of the United States necessarily brought violent divisions of opinion since it was the first application to 5,000,000 of people of a constitutional form of government, which was largely an experiment. The result was apparent in the first appearance in the campaign of 1792 of the semblance of political parties. Where Washington had been chosen four years before without suggestion of party division, he now faced a party division and yet was done the greater compliment of an unanimous re-election.

The country now saw two political parties in existence. The Federal-ists wished the government to be conducted with more or less ceremony and dignity, somewhat after the British fashion, while Thomas Jefferson and his followers, who at first could do no better name than anti-Federalists, but who later called themselves republicans, preferred an administration of supreme democratic simplicity. The division into parties was logically followed by divisions in the president's first cabinet and we find Jefferson and Hamilton, both strong contributors to the success of independence, allying themselves on the opposite sides.

Between Hamilton and Jefferson, as between the Federalists and anti-Federalists stood the calm figure of Washington, striving to maintain harmony. But his efforts were fruitless and the close of his first term was marked by so much bitterness that he desired to retire to private life.

The country, however, was not yet ready to dispense with his services.
With unforgotten reluctance he consented to stand for re-election and in 1792 he was unanimously chosen to succeed himself with the support of both Federalists and republicans.

While there was perfect harmony in the election of a president, there was no such unanimity in the choice of his running mate. The battle for the vice presidency was heated.
Electors were chosen by the state legislatures in Connecticut, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, South Carolina and Georgia. Elsewhere they were elected by popular vote. The result was the re-election of John Adams, who posed as a Federalist and who received 77 electoral votes to 50 for George Clinton, republican and governor of New York. In the total vote for the vice presidency appeared two additional names, which were destined to be written large on the page of American history within a short generation. Thomas Jefferson and Aaron Burr, both republicans, received four and one vote respectively.

FIRE BURNS MUCH

STANDING TIMBER

Twenty Acres Destroyed on Farm of George Shaw, 2 1/2 Miles
North of Evansville,
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Evansville, Sept. 30.—Fire destroyed about twenty acres of good standing timber on the farm owned by George Shaw, two and one-half miles northwest of this city. The fire started Friday noon and as the land is near the railroad track it is thought that a spark from an engine started the blaze. Farmers in that vicinity turned out and succeeded in putting out the fire before it reached any of the buildings.

A most enjoyable entertainment is promised at the opera-house next Saturday evening, Oct. 3. The Schubert symphony club and lady quartette will favor Evansville with one of their famous concerts at that date.

Danderine

GROWS HAIR
and we can PROVE IT!

A lady from Minnesota writes:
"As a result of using Danderine, my hair is close to the feet in length."

Beautiful Hair at Small Cost

HAIR troubles, like many other diseases, have been wrongly diagnosed and altogether misunderstood. The hair itself is not the thing to be treated, for the reason that it is simply a product of the scalp and wholly dependent upon its action. The scalp is the very soil in which the hair is produced, nurtured and grows, and it alone should receive the attention it really needs to be healthy. It would be as silly to try to treat the stem of a plant with a view of making it grow and become more beautiful—the soil in which the plant grows must be attended for. Therefore, the scalp in which the hair grows must receive the attention if you are to expect it to grow and become more beautiful.

Loss of hair is caused by the scalp drying out, or losing the supply of moisture and nutrients which it needs. The scalp will grow and multiply as nature intended it should.

Known to the world as the only hair restorer, Danderine has a most wonderful effect upon the hair, scalp and tissues of the scalp. It is the only remedy for the hair ever discovered that is similar to the natural hair foods or liquids of the scalp.

It penetrates the pores quickly and the hair soon shows the effects of its stimulating and nourishing qualities.

One 2-cent bottle is enough to convince you of its great worth as a hair growing and hair beautifying remedy—try it and see for yourself.

WITH BELLS AROUND NECK

If They Saw Anyone Come, Must Run Away. Turned Out of the City.

We read with horror of the almost inhuman yet successful effort in England in the middle ages to stamp out the scourge of leprosy. The unfortunate sufferers were turned out of the city into the wilderness and forbidden under pain of death, to speak with or hold any communication with his more fortunate fellows. He even carried a bell around his neck to distinguish that he was a leper, if he saw anyone come, he must run away. But out of the darkness of this brutal law, there sprang up a beautiful flame of Christianity. Brave men, plume men, banded themselves together and gathered up these poor lepers, attended to them, treated them until the disease died out. These heroes were afterwards turned into hospitals. This formed the hospital system of England. From this system the echo of their work has come down to our own age.

NO PLACE FOR THE CONSUMPTIVES.

When once this disease is called consumption, no boarding house, no private family, no community is safe from its ravages. Who will shelter them? The doctor turns to the hospital for the care of his patient, but he finds that refuge for the sick is also closed against the poor consumptive. What have they then to expect? A wait for death, a few weeks, a few months, a miserable life to serve. It is a shock to civilized Christian people to find that for one of the most pitiable forms of sickness there is provided no shelter.

Dr. Ren has been treating as a specialty, tubercular diseases for the last twenty years.

His system of hypodermic injection for tubercular consumption is acknowledged by high authority.

His cures are remarkable and his patients are some who have almost passed away. Dr. Ren proposes to cure only those that have a reasonable chance of recovery, and from his experience the past has taught him, he expects to obtain better results than the average physician or specialist.

How we publish the names of some patients cured of different diseases: Gilbert Haven, Thief River Falls, Minn.; cured of blood and skin trouble.

Mrs. Annand O. Lee, Foxston, Minn.; cured of a chronic nervous trouble that she had suffered for years.

Mrs. Ferdinand Tesch, Long Prairie, Minn.; cured of enlarged liver and stomach trouble.

Mrs. August Kuklok, Rice, Minn.; cured of a big neck, or kottie of the neck.

Mrs. G. Rohner, Long Prairie, Minn.; cured of various veins and chronic ulcerative catarrh.

Miss Tina Williams, Ulen, Minn.; cured of appendicitis without operation.

Mrs. J. Draskoski, Little Falls, Minn.; cured of cancer wax back in 1902, writes recently that she has never had a return of the disease and that she is in excellent health.

Peter Blumh, Nary, Minn.; cured of paralysis of the right side. Consulted Dr. Ren after learning that Dr. Ren had cured his neighbor.

Fred Sonnenberg, Alida P. O., Minn.; cured of stomach, liver, and kidney troubles.

Miss Mary Peterson, daughter of Morris Peterson, of the United States custom house at Duluth, Minn.; cured of tubercular consumption. Dr. Ren had a hard pull with Miss Peterson, but brought her out sound and well. She was far gone when he commenced treating her.

Miss Louise Hill, West Duluth, Minn.; cured of chronic eczema and blood troubles. Symptoms of cancer were complicated with this disease.

August Holmstrom, New Ulen, Minn.; cured of catarrh.

Jacob W. Gish, Kilkenny, Minn.; cured of rheumatism and stiff knee, after he had been on crutches for many years; had tried lots of doctors.

Fred Tolman, Waterville, Minn.; cured of chronic catarrh.

J. A. Nagel's five-year-old daughter, Jackson, Minn.; cured of stomach trouble and cramps after having treated for two years without results with other doctors. Cured by Dr. Ren and has never had a symptom since.

Henry Wichstadt, Sleepy Eye, Minn.; cured of a severe case of protruding piles by the hypodermic injection method. No cutting.

Miss Marie Koski, Hutchinson, Minn.; operated on and cured of cross eyes in ten minutes.

Kenneth Jorgenson, boy aged seven, Jackson, Minn.; cured of bronchitis and stomach troubles. Had tried many doctors.

Wm. Ziska, LeSueur Center, Minn.; cured of bronchitis and chronic catarrh of the stomach.

Miss Selma Carlstrom, Detroit, Minn.; writes: "Your medicine has done me lots of good. My face is clear and I am feeling better than I have felt for years. I don't think I need any more treatment."

Francis M. Ward, an old man of 81 years of Royalton, Minn.; cured of bladder trouble and kidney trouble of ten years' standing. Had treated with some of the best doctors in this country absolutely without benefit. Cured quickly by Dr. Ren.

Christ Scherr, Kempson, N. D., says he would not take $700.00 for what Dr. Ren did for him in one month's treatment. Would not believe that he could be cured of piles so quickly. Dr. Ren treated and cured him by injection.

Mrs. John Matheson, Hickson, N. D.; cured of bladder and kidney trouble that had bothered her for many years. Mrs. Matheson is now the picture of health.

C. Christmann, Northwood, Minn.; cured of cancerous growth of the lip. Two injections cured him when others said it could not be cured. No pain, no inconvenience to business.

Dr. Ren has associated with him some of the best physicians in the state of Minnesota. He has the largest laboratories and imports his own drugs from Europe.

Special to the "Gazette."

The many patients of Dr. Ren will be glad to know that he has arranged his next professional visit, and will visit the town as stated here below.

This coming of Dr. Ren will enable his many patients to consult this eminent specialist close to their homes. Consultation and examination to those interested, $1.00.

The BRASS BOWL

By LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

(Copyright 1907, The Bobbs-Merrill Co.)

Maitland shook himself into his top-coat, jammed hat upon head, dropped the jewels into one pocket, the cigarette case into another, and—on impulse—Ansty's revolver, with its two unexploded cartridges, into a third.

Maitland Woke Up. "What's That?" He Questioned Sharply.

and pressed the call button for O'Hagan, not waiting, however, for that worthy to climb the stairs, but mounting him in the entry hall.

"I'm going back to the Bartholdi, O'Hagan, for the night. You may bring me my letters and any messages in the morning. I should like you to sleep in the flat to-night and answer any telephone calls."

"Yes, Mister Maitland, sir."

"Have the police gone, O'Hagan?"

"There's a whole bottle full yet, sir."

"You've not been drinking, I trust?"

The Irishman shuffled. "Shure, sir, an' what'd he be drinking?"

Laughing, Maitland bade him good night and left the house, turning west to gain Fifth avenue, walking slowly because he was a little tired, and enjoying the rather unusual experience of being abroad at that hour without company.

The sky seemed cleaner than ordinarily, the city quieter than ever he had known it, and in the air was a sweet smell, reminiscent of the country—reminding one unhappily of the previous night when one had gone whistling to one's destiny along a perfumed country road.

"Good evening, Mister Maitland, sir! It can't be you!"

Maitland looked up, bewildered for the instant. The voice that hailed him out of the sky was not unfamiliar.

A cab that he had waited on the corner to let pass, was reined back suddenly. The driver leaned down from the box and in a thunderstruck tone advertised his stupefaction.

"It ain't in nature, sir—if you'll pardon my mentioning it. But 'ere I leaves you not ten minutes ago at the St. Luke building and finds you 'ere, when you 'ave'n't 'ad time—"

Maitland, voice up. "What's that?"

he questioned, sharply. "You left me where ten minutes—"

"St. Luke building, corner Broadway and—"

"I know it," excited, "but—"

"'avin' took you there with the young lady—"

"Young lady!"

"That comes outer the 'ouse with you, sir—"

"The devil!" Maitland hesitated no longer; his foot was on the step as he spoke. "Drive me there at once, and drive for all you're worth!" he cried.

"If there's an ounce of speed in that plug of yours and you don't get it out—"

"Never fear, sir! We'll make it in five minutes!"

"It'll be worth your while."

"Right-o!"

Maitland dropped into his seat, dumfounded. "Good Lord!" he whispered; and then, savagely: "In the power of that infamous scoundrel—"

And felt of the revolver in his pocket. The cab had been headed north; the St. Luke rears its massive bulk south of Twenty-second street. The driver expertly swung his vehicle almost on dead center. Simultaneously it cooped with the impact of a heavy bulk landing upon the step and falling in a heap on the deck.

"My word, what's that?" came from aloft. Maitland was altogether too startled to speak.

The heap sat up, resolving itself into the semblance of a man; who spoke in decisive tones:

"If yeh're goin' there, I'm goin' with yeh, 'r yeh don't go—swot!"

"The sleuth!" gasped Maitland, astounded.

"Ah, cut that, can't yeh?" Hickey got on all fours, found his cigar, stuck it in his mouth, and fell into place at Maitland's side.

"Hickey, I mean. But how—"

"If yeh're Maitland, 'nd Ansty's at the St. Luke building, tell that fool up there to drive!"

Maitland had no need to lift the trap; the cabby had already done that.

"All right," the young man called. "It's Detective Hickey. Drive on!"

The cab leaped out over the roof—crack!—and the horse, presumably convinced that no speed other than a dead-run would ever again be demanded of it, tore frantically down the avenue, the harness reeking like a top-sail-schooner in a heavy gale.

Maitland and the detective were battered against the side and back of the vehicle and slammed against one another with painful regularity. Under such circumstances speech was difficult; yet they managed to exchange a few sentences.

"Yeh gottuh gun?"

"Ansty's—two good cartridges."

"Jus' as well I'm along, I guess."

And again: "How'd yeh 'spose Ansty got this cab?"

"I don't know—must 've been in the house—I told cabby to wait—Ansty seems to have walked out right on your heels."

"Hell!" And a moment later: "What's this about a woman in the case?"

Maitland took swift thought on her behalf.

"Too long to go into now," he parried the query. "You help me catch this scoundrel Ansty and I'll put in a good word for you with the deputy commissioner."

"Ah, yeh help me nab him," grunted the detective, "and I won't need no good word with nobody."

The hansom swung into Broadway, going like a whirlwind; and picked up an uniformed officer in front of the Plattner building, who, shouting and using his loudest stridently, upstaged after them. A block further down another fell into line; and he it was who pointed at the step an instant after the cab had lurched to a stop before the entrance to the St. Luke building.

Hickey had rolled out before the policeman had a chance to bluster.

"Lo, Hergen," he greeted the man.

"Yeh know me—I'm Hickey, central office. Yeh're jus' in time. Ansty's in this buildin'—r was ten minutes ago. We want all the help we c'n get."

By way of reply the officer stooped and drummed a loud alarm on the sidewalk with his nightstick.

"Say," he panted, rising, "yeh're a wonder, Hickey—if yeh got him."

"Uh-huh," grunted the detective with a sidelong glance at Maitland. "C'm 'long."

The lobby of the building was quite deserted as they entered, the night-watchman invisible, the night elevator on its way to the roof—was discovered by consultation of the indicator dial above the gate. Hickey punched the night call bell savagely.

"Me 'nd him," he said, jerking the free thumb at Maitland, "I'll go up and hunt him out. Begun at the top floor an' work down. That's the way, huh?"

"Nah," to the policeman, "yeh stay here an' hold up anybody 't tries tuh leave the buildin'. There ain't no other entrance, I 'spose, what?"

"Basement door an' ash lift's round the corner," responded the officer, "but that had ought tuh be locked, right?"

"Well, 'f anybody else comes along yeh put 'im there, anyway, for luck. What 'n hell's th' matter with this elevator?"

The detective settled a pudgy index-finger on the push button and elicited a far, thin, shrill peep from the annunciator above. But the indicator arrow remained as motionless as the car at the top of the shaft. Another summons gained no response. In likewise, and a third was also disregarded.

Hickey stepped back, face black as a storm-cloud, summed up his opinion of the management of the building in one soul-battering phrase, produced his bandanna and used it vigorously, uttered a blood on the ancestry of the night-watchman and the likes of him, and turned to give profane welcome to the policeman who had noticed the cab at Twenty-third street and who now panted in, blown and perspiring. Much to his disgust he found himself assigned to stand guard over the basement exits, and waddled forth again into the street.

Meanwhile the first officer to arrive upon the scene was taking his turn at agitating the button and shaking the gates; and with no more profit of his undertaking than Hickey. After a minute or two of it he acknowledged defeat with an oath, and turned away to browbeat the struggling vanguard of belated wayfarers—messenger boys, slatternly drays, hucksters, loafers, and one or two plain citizens conspicuously out of their reputable grooves—who were drifting in at the entrance to the lobby walls with blank, curious faces. Forewarners of that mysterious rabble which is apparently precipitated out of the very air by any extraordinary happening in city streets, it allowed to remain they would in five minutes have waxed in numbers to the proportions of an unmanageable mob; and the policeman, knowing this, set about dispersing them with perhaps greater discretion than consideration.

Devices of Smugglers.

The various gates of Paris are guarded by customs collectors, and the devices used to deceive them are shown in the museum. A dummy stomach, which was a sort of India-rubber pocket, was used by one apparently portly gentleman to carry dutiable goods into the city. Other exhibits are a horse collar which was filled with chartreuse and a cart with shafts which contained neatly rolled up lace.

Woman Workers.

The women who work are engaged alike in the most delicate and the most repellent industries. They do many things that men cannot do, and some things that men would not do if they could. Generally she works longer under worse conditions, and for wages in comparison with which the dock laborer's stipend an hour is generous payment.—Eastern Press.
